Talking Points

Plain Speaking . . .

P Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who appeared yesterday before the Overseas Writers' Club, responded vehemently to a question about leaks of classified information: "Our basic problem is that we've lost all sense of discipline—all sense of discipline. It didn't used to be that way There used to be a lot more restraint on the part of the press in what they would print. And as far as our government's concerned, it's a gusher. It's disgusting, the way the stuff leaks out. We've got to find the people who are doing it and fire them."
